

COURTYARD HOUSE

DESIGN TEAM

ARCHITECTURE
2FORM Architecture
Richard Shugar AIA, LEED AP
Kira Malone, Project Architect

GENERAL CONTRACTOR
Yellowstone Builders
Chuck Cox

LANDSCAPE ARCHITECTURE
Loving Robertson Landscape Architects
Jackie Robertson

STRUCTURAL ENGINEER
Madden & Baughman
Jerome Madden

PHOTOGRAPHY
Brian Davies

Nestled in a quiet South Eugene neighborhood, the bold colors and strong roofline of the Courtyard House command attention from passersby while feeling appropriate for the context. The minimized 1,620 s.f. footprint is tucked between naturally landscaped front and backyards. Organized around an open courtyard, the house is customized to meet the owner's love of gardening. Offering multiple "outdoor rooms", the Courtyard House features a swooping butterfly roof that presents a strong roofline and extends to form the carport. The roof also allows for vaulted ceilings to allow natural daylight to fill each space. The residence sports a contemporary rustic appeal sporting a rich and warm color scheme on both the exterior and interior that includes wood textures and the owner's favorite, vibrant red accents. Equipped with plenty of built-in shelf space, the design allows for the client to display artwork and cherishedables collected from past travels and memories.

In plan, the C-shaped layout is simply programmed with clear, distinct public and private zones connected internally by a glazed hallway with a window seat to the courtyard. The courtyard scheme allows for each room to be naturally lit with strong connections to the outdoors, as each room is situated along the perimeter. The south and front end of the house features a large open kitchen and living space easily accessible to the courtyard for various opportunities for entertaining with guests and of course, relaxation without. Vibrant red hand-glazed subway tiles serve as focal points at the entry on the exterior and at the fireplace in the living room.

