Since 1995, the University of Oregon's Ecological Design Center has hosted the annual HOPES Conference with a focus on environmental sustainability in architecture and design. Now in its 27th year, the conference is reimagined with HOPES X.

X, the theme of this year's event and foundational framework for future HOPES conferences, celebrates the power of the letter to deconstruct binaries, exposing the systemic wounds, momentous action, joy, and imaginative futures that too often fall to the margins upheld by white supremacy, and yet are the cornerstones of shaping space and the built environment.
