ODC 22 Featured Speaker:
Allison Bryan, AIA

With over 22 years of design experience, her work includes international award-winning architecture, interior architecture and graphic design. She believes that conventional design thinking stifles creativity. Within Open Studio Collective, she is working to reimagine, challenge, envision, and problem-solve to create spaces and moments that nurture the human experience.

Allison is a licensed architect in Oregon and Montana, and is also a LEED accredited professional. She has previously taught as an adjunct professor at the University of Oregon and currently sits on the community development board for the City of Bozeman as well as the advisory council for the Bozeman Public Library Foundation.
