AIA Oregon Job Board

Carbon Narratives for Design Planning - Workshop 4
Jul 30 | 9-11:30am | 2 AIA LU|HSW Available

"LCA Assumptions: carbon neutrality vs climate neutrality"

The fourth workshop in the series will center around lesser understood topics of Life Cycle Analysis that often provides an incomplete picture on global warming potential. There are assumptions made within LCA that do not consider regional differences or only look at a portion of the life cycle of the material leading to results that provide a short-term solution. The panelists will explain these lesser understood topics and the conversations will explore the time scales of carbon and climate neutrality. There will be a Q&A period following the panelist presentations. Learn More and Register»

AFO - Dine and Design
Aug 5 | 5:30-7pm | AIA LU|HSW Available | $25 member/$35 non-member

Need to relax and unwind your body after a day hunched over your computer? Interested in how design can contribute to a more inclusive environment? This special Dine & Design event has you covered.

Hannah Silver, Founder of Informal/Function, will introduce us to the basics of inclusive design and lead a gentle stretch. We'll round it out with wine and snacks on the Stoel Rives deck with sweeping views of Portland. You don't need to be a designer or yogi to appreciate this after-work destressing activity - all you need is a body! Learn More and Register»

SMPS Oregon - Urban Renewal Projects and Gentrification Aug 18 | 3-5pm | Reportable for AIA LU

In this session, they will discuss the perception and naming of Urban Renewal Projects vs Gentrification and look at the impacts to the BIPOC community. There are systemic programs (ie: loans, projects) that have been done in the name of “bettering” a neighborhood while ignoring the folks that built it and displace them from their homes and businesses.

The keynote presentation will be followed by a panel discussion with local industry professionals from Bora, Adre, and Community Development Partners for a discussion on topics surrounding gentrification and urban renewal in Portland. Learn More and Register»

Empowered Living Design Competition
Registration Deadline - September 10

Like many places throughout the country, home prices in Salt Lake City are rising faster than the incomes of residents. Recently, a lack of inventory has resulted in a significant increase in prices, making buying a home out of reach for many. Recent data shows that in Salt Lake County, the median home price increased 17% over the past year, while active listings along the Wasatch Front have dropped between 11% and 32% over the same time period.

You are invited to share your innovation, creativity, and vision by designing a small residential structure or “Tiny Home.” The design may be a standalone home, a cluster of small cottages in a planned development, or an Accessory Dwelling Unit (ADU) on a lot with a primary residence. Through a separate procurement and contract process, the winning designs may be developed further by SLC or CDCU for future construction within Salt Lake City. This competition is an opportunity for architects, emerging professionals, residential designers, design students, and others to have a direct impact in providing solutions to Salt Lake City’s affordable housing shortage.
