ARE Testing Update

Online Proctoring begins Monday, 12/14

Starting Monday, 12/14, exam candidates can take the ARE through the new online proctoring process. This format allows candidates to take the exam at locations other than test centers, including home. This is a great option during the pandemic, particularly for our members in the AIA Southern Oregon section as their Prometric test center is closed at least through the end of the year.

NCARB provided a webinar today on the online proctored exam process and we expect a recording will be posted HERE in the next few days. Joseph Sis, AIASO EPC chair comments about the webinar, “The NCARB webinar today was really informative as they focused almost entirely on questions from candidates and answered them in a live real-world, common-sense, manner. The questions here really dug into issues that will affect most remote testers, and even a few related to taking the test “old school” at the test center.”

AIA Oregon Design Annual

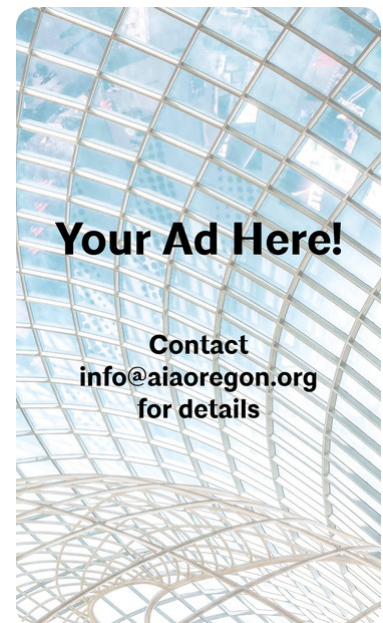

Call for Submissions Deadline - Dec 18

Each year the AIA Eugene Section publishes the Design Annual. Following our consolidation into a single-state Chapter, this year we're opening this publication to contributors from across Oregon.

The intent of the Design Annual is to elevate the profession in the eyes of the public, and we depend on our members to contribute design-related articles, 800 to 1200 words, that are of interest to a wide audience. These articles will cover a vast variety of subject material all under a common theme. This year's theme is “Inclusive Spaces.”

Please let Colin Dean know if you're interested in submitting an article. All submittals must be received by Friday, December 18th (end of day) for publication in mid-January.

AIA Eugene & AIAS UO warmly invite you to the 2020 annual Professional Pin-Up. An exciting tradition, every year local and regional firms showcase their current or recent project. In the past, the format of the presentation has been similar to an academic studio review. Multiple firms present concurrently, with rotating reviewers comprised of students, faculty, and local professionals. We are working on ways to adapt this format to our current virtual restrictions.
